

Co-Opted Governor

Jonathan Walsh

Jono as he is known by his friends and family has lived in Fillongley for 15 years, born in London, lived in Somerset for 21 years, before he married Alison and had two girls Sophie and Anya.

Jono was a Parent Governor for four years as both his children attended Bournebrook. He returned to the Governing Body in 2020 to offer help with the schools premises projects and alterations/improvements as well as other duties as and when required. He is an active village member and enjoys working with locals to help “get the village together” such as the Annual Village Fete and other celebration events held over the years.

Jono’s construction background has helped with some of the schools refurbishment projects over the years and he hopes that he can continue to assist as and when this is needed.

Whilst he is not often seen at school he is always available on the phone or via email if required.
